Hello there!

I'm Courtney Brennan and I am running for a council position in the Shire of Dardanup. I live in Burekup, and am passionate about the future of our community. I hope to contribute in a worthy manner for the benefit of all who call the Shire of Dardanup home.

As a working mother, I am devoted to being involved in shaping our community for the future, creating benefits so that following generations can thrive.

My professional background includes positions in the local health industry, and now in the building and construction industry for a busy local company. I find my career also supports my private life when volunteering my time with my sons Air Force Cadet squadron.

I have earned qualifications in Commerce and International Business, and I hope that these will support me in providing a new perspective of women and young people within our community.

I am running for council as I am enthusiastic and believe in a vision of progress and positive change.
