Locals Enjoy The 22nd Dardanup Lions/ Dardanup Residents Assoc Australia Day Breakfast In Carramar Park

A crowd of 250 enjoyed a delicious cooked breakfast, muffins, watermelon kindly donated by Orchard Rd Watermelons at Burekup and juice all prepared and served by the Dardanup Lions Club and the Dardanup and Districts Residents Assoc for a gold coin donation. These 2 community groups have organized the breakfast for 22 years now and included this years entertainment; the Dardanup Community Choir, singer Geoff, childrens games kindly organized by the Dardanup Bushfire Brigade Cadets, kids facepainting and bouncy castle. The Shire of Dardanup supports the breakfast with funding as well as funding this year through the Australia Day Council.

Annually at the breakfast the Dardanup Lions and Dardanup Residents Assoc presents a Citizenship Award to someone or a group in the community who display outstanding volunteering. This year that award was proudly presented to Jenny and Ian Trigwell.

Dardanup's Australia Day Breakfast

Jenny and Ian Trigwell with their DDRA/ Dardanup Lions Citizenship Award

The following outlines all the volunteering Jenny and Ian have done in this community over many years. Congratulations Jenny and Ian!

Where would the Dardanup Equestrian Centre be without the vision, dedication and tireless volunteer efforts of Jenny and Ian Trigwell? Quite simply, it would not exist. Jenny Trigwell recognised the need for a dedicated equestrian facility in Dardanup at a time when the Commonage land was at risk of being sold off. When submissions were called for by the Shire, Jenny, together with Gail and Richard George, prepared a proposal advocating for the land to be retained for equestrian use. Their submission was ranked number one in the SouthWest, opening the door for the long-held community vision to become a reality. A grant of $100,000 was subsequently secured to commence development at the site. To ensure a viable and incorporated entity could manage the facility, Henty Riding Club was reconvened and relocated to Dardanup as the primary body through which the grounds could be established.

To further demonstrate genuine community demand, Jenny and Ian were instrumental in forming the Dardanup Horse and Pony Club in the late 1990's. Early rallies were conducted from Trigwell's paddock. Jenny ran a canteen from the shed, Ian supplied some jumps and barrels in the paddock and local kids brought their nags eagerly getting the club underway. It was definitely a "grass-roots" beginning.

Through the engagement of Henty and Dardanup Horse and Pony Club, the foundations were laid for what would later become the Dardanup Equestrian Centre.

That was the easy part. Now the real work began.

In a purely volunteer capacity, Jenny assisted with planning and infrastructure, funding applications, stakeholder liaison and overall project management.

Networking is one of Jenny's greatest strengths. A natural ambassador for the community, she established and led a grounds committee, taking on the formidable task of transforming a filled-in rubbish tip into a fully functioning equestrian facility.

Through her determination and hands-on leadership, Jenny was active in progressing the facilities to include an all-purpose sand arena, subsurface drainage, arena lighting, fencing, temporary ablution facilities, storage sheds, yards, essential equipment, and our magnificent clubrooms which form the meeting hub for our members. Jenny partnered each project through from conception to completion.

During this time, Ian played a pivotal role in keeping momentum moving forward. As President of Henty Riding Club for more than a decade, his leadership was crucial during the formative years, guiding early growth and the establishment of essential facilities.

Together, Jenny and Ian coordinated countless volunteer hours, secured significant in-kind contributions from local businesses, engaged companies for infrastructure support, supplied equipment, and worked closely with the Shire to ensure the Centre's long-term viability. Jenny also managed the canteen for many years to support ongoing fundraising efforts, always stepping in wherever help was needed. Through their involvement, the Dardanup Equestrian Centre has grown to include Dardanup Campdraft and the Australian Stock Horse Dardanup Branch. A combined membership exceeding 600 riders continue to benefit from the outstanding facilities made possible through Jenny and Ian's vision and commitment in those early days.

The Dardanup Equestrian Centre stands today as a lasting legacy of Jenny and Ian's community spirit, perseverance and selfless service. Their extraordinary contribution has rightly been recognised through Honorary Life Memberships. Together, Jenny and Ian Trigwell exemplify the very best of community volunteering. On behalf of the equestrian community, we thank them both.

Jenny became the inaugural Treasurer for the Dardanup Heritage Collective in 2020 and has been re-elected unopposed every year since then.

Jenny's monthly reporting and the summaries of annual finances for the group are impeccable of course, but it is her interest in the history of the Dardanup area that makes her a most valued member of the committee.

Jenny has a detective's eye for uncovering the most obscure yet interesting detail and she has been responsible for identifying some wonderful early articles and photos, even as far away as South Australia.

Jenny is an incredibly hard worker and quick thinker, helping out regularly with tracking down historical items and sorting some of the hundreds of documents and photographs received by the Dardanup Heritage Collective over the past couple of years.

Her grasp of administrative requirements at local, state and national levels has been an absolute asset to this group as has her advocacy for documenting and recording the history and heritage of the Dardanup and nearby localities.

Janice Calcei, Secretary, Dardanup Heritage Collective

Jenny and Ian have been involved with the Dardanup Environmental Action group since its formation in 2019 and their fight to oppose the Banksia Rd Refuse Site goes further back to 1999. When DEAG formed it meant weekly meetings plus an enormous amount of work on Jenny and Ian's part and others to ensure the best outcome for this community. Considering Jenny doesn't have a science background I've always admired her ability to read and understand some very complex information and then be able to make others understand and use that information to write up some very good submissions. I would hate to estimate the amount of work Jenny and Ian have done for DEAG since 2019 and continue to do so. Ian is also a member of the Cleanaway Reference Group representing the community as well as Chairperson of DEAG from 2022 – 2024

Celebrating 30 Years of the Dardanup Bushrangers Cricket Club!

This year marks a very special milestone for the Dardanup Bushrangers Cricket Club as we celebrate 30 years of cricket, community and mateship in the South West of Western Australia!

Founded in 1996 (approximately) as part of the vibrant cricketing community in the Bunbury & Districts Cricket Association, the Bushrangers have grown from a spirited group of local players into a club with deep roots in the Dardanup community. Over three decades, the club has provided opportunities for players of all ages and abilities to enjoy the great game of cricket and forge lifelong friendships. Cricket has long been an important part of life in Dardanup — local sporting teams and competitions have connected families, friends and neighbours for generations. The town's recreation grounds have hosted cricket and other sports since the early 20th century, helping bring the wider community together.

The Bushrangers have proudly entered teams across multiple grades and age groups in the Bunbury & Districts Cricket Association. From senior men's teams like the 3rd, 4th and 5th grade sides, to junior Bushrangers competing in year-level competitions, the club's green and gold colours are a familiar sight on match days throughout the season.

None of the Bushrangers' achievements over the past 30 years would have been possible without the passion and commitment of players, coaches, volunteers and supporters — from scorers and ground workers to team managers and sponsors. The club has been shaped by people who give their time freely, share their skills with younger players, and foster a welcoming culture for everyone who walks through the gate. Calling All Former Bushrangers!

As part of our 30th anniversary celebrations, the club is reaching out to former players, coaches, committee members and volunteers from across the years. Whether you played one season or helped shape the club for many years, we want to hear from you! This is a chance to reconnect, share stories, celebrate milestones and recognise the contributions that have helped make the Dardanup Bushrangers what they are today.

Join Us for the Celebration on Saturday 28th February 2026

Details of the anniversary event, including special fixtures, presentations and social catch-ups, can be found in this edition of the Dardy Times. Make sure to keep an eye on club notices and social media — and spread the word to others who might have been part of the club's journey. Let's come together to celebrate 30 years of cricket, community and camaraderie!

Dardanup Veterinary Centre News ALERT

At the beginning of this snake season we have seen some very aggressive snakebites and due to an extended hibernation they carry more venom. IF YOUR PET IS BITTEN BY A SNAKE CALL YOUR VET AND BRING IT IN AS QUICKLY AS POSSIBLE
Discussion regarding dog and cat vaccinations and titre testing

Vaccinations provide health and benefit to dogs and cats against severe and debilitating viral diseases (that can sometimes kill pets). Generally having a large percentage of animals in a population vaccinated or immune also limits the spread of those diseases. But should we always vaccinate? And what can titre testing tell us.

In mid-2024 the WSAVA (World Small Animal Veterinary Association) brought out guidelines for vets for vaccinating based on up-to-date scientific literature and immunological principles. Whilst different diseases are worse/better in different parts of the world, the guidelines are subject to that variation, and many vaccines are recommended in areas of endemic diseases.

What was recommended for non-endemic regions was similar for dogs and cats.

Dogs

Vaccinate every 4 weeks from 6-8 weeks up until 16 weeks
Then at 6 months (C5 vaccination)
Then kennel cough yearly and Parvovirus every 3 years

Cats

Vaccinate every 4 weeks until 16 weeks and then at 6 months (Feline Enteritis, Cat Flu and Leukemia)
If vaccinating for FIV give 3 injections from 8 weeks
If Chlamydia give 2 injections from 7-9 weeks, 2-4 weeks apart.

Then give annually (all)

These new recommendations seem to be working very well, and we have definitely seen a reduction in Kennel Cough in vaccinated dogs, and we are fortunate in this area to see minimal Parvovirus although there are regular outbreaks in Perth and tourist areas.

Titre testing is available for select diseases

Canine Parvovirus, not Kennel Cough

Feline Enteritis

Feline Calicivirus and Feline Rhinotracheitis (Cat flu)

The titre tests are ONLY recommended in well vaccinated ADULT animals i.e. The puppy and kitten vaccinations are very important, and immunity is not well developed until at least 13 weeks, (i.e. DO NOT expose dogs and cats to the general environment or other animals until at least 13 weeks of age) and vaccines are recommended up to 16 weeks and then again at 6 months also no matter.

The titre testing is done by IDEXX in USA and can take several weeks. Vetnostics in Perth can also do them, and they are quicker (possibly not as accurate). If animals have sufficient immunity on this blood testing, it suggests they don't need vaccinating for 12 months. When they either need another test or vaccination. Sometimes results can be falsely positive or negative. Titre tests can be done only individually and are usually more expensive than vaccinating in the region of more than $200 a test.

Dardanup Community Connections Night

Are you new to Dardanup and want to meet the locals?
Got a bit of time on your hands?
Have some skills that you would like to put to good use?
Would like to help out in the community but don't know what's on offer?

If you answered yes to any of these questions then you are warmly invited to the Dardanup Community Connections Night at Wells Recreation Park Clubrooms on Tuesday 17 February at 7pm.

Community groups such as the Dardanup Residents Assoc, Dardanup Heritage Collective, Crooked Brook Forest and the Dardanup Bull and Barrel Festival to name a few will be showcased so you will find out what they do and things they need a hand with.

Could be anything from busy bees at Crooked Brook Forest to helping with the Anzac Day Service to cataloguing documents for the Dardanup Heritage Collective. The volunteer work is varied and the good thing is you can consider offering as little as 1 hour per month. Any help would be most appreciated and no decisions required on the night.

Come along and find out what's out there in your community, and let's work together to make this a thriving and supportive community. Please see the poster this edition for further information.

This evening is organised by the Dardanup and Districts Residents Assoc in partnership with Volunteer SW. Any queries - Jill Cross, 0418 281 201, jill.cross@bigpond.com

Boyanup Farmers Market News

Hope everyone had a Merry Christmas as the Boyanup Farmers Market looks forward to another successful year, and being part of the Dardanup Times in 2026. The market remains a strong community favourite, with all regular stallholders returning in the new year. Many of these stallholders have been part of the Boyanup Farmers Market for over 15 years, reflecting the long-standing support for local producers and small businesses.

Last year also saw the welcome addition of several new stalls, adding even more variety for shoppers. These included Blackwood Fired Bread (sourdough), Down South Chilli Jam, Down 2 Earth Gardening (seeds and seedlings), Ghost Gum Farm (garlic and flowers), Pastartisan (fresh pasta and sauces), Preston Valley Distillery (vodka and rum), Western Australian Sandalwood Nut Co, and Unison Farms (eggs and chicken products).

With a mix of familiar favourites and new offerings, the Boyanup Farmers Market looks set to continue its role as a vibrant hub for the community in 2026.

Our February market date is 22nd February, 2026 between 8.00am and 12.00pm and we will still be having a great raffle full of goodies donated by the stall holders,

Dardanup Heritage Collective News

Looking to 2026

The Dardanup Heritage Collective has spent the past year meeting with Council staff to negotiate setting up working and display spaces at the Shire's Little St offices. The DHC has already started sorting materials for an Archive of the Shire's precious past documents, photographs, journals, meeting books and similar items. These will be held in perpetuity for the community and used for displays and research. The Shire has agreed to some modifications of the building and, alongside other projects, the group's collecting and sorting work will continue in 2026 with Dardanup hoping for a facility looking something like the wonderful Ron Maidment Archive at Capel.

Anyone out there with an interest in the heritage and history of the area, or looking to volunteer, of any age or background, is most welcome to join us. The DHC meets on the second (sometimes third) Friday of each month. Many, many, interesting conversations are had at each meeting.

Late last year, the Dardanup Heritage Collective put together a fun display of "Clothing of the Past" at the Thomas Little Hall in Dardanup. This was one the community could really get their teeth into and some quaint and quirky items of clothing past made their re-appearance! Thanks to everyone who contributed and visited on the day.

For more Dardanup stories, go to our website:

If you would like to talk more about the work of the group, feel free to contact me, Janice Calcei 0402 783 019, or Jill Cross 0418 281 201. Hoping to see some new faces in 2026 or email us at dardanupheritagecollective@gmail.com

Our first meeting of the year will be held on Friday 13 February.

Dardanup Lions Club News

In the creation of a Lion there are just certain undertakings. Our behaviours as the Dardanup Lions Club members follow a well discerned pattern. Men of the area that surrounds Dardanup can apply to be awarded membership and the process involves them getting acquainted with the "Purposes", "Ethics" and Heritage of the club. The same standards that existing club members have upheld since 1972. (One Lion Allen is still going.) In order for the work to be maintained despite Lions leaving us either by geographical or Life (or death) changes we induct new members. As well we insist that – family and work obligations must have priority over their Lions work.

February is the beginning of the Noongar Season Bunaru (Second summer). It is the traditionally the hottest month. When the Marri trees bloom, the Marsh/March Flies will arrive and I am still amazed at how they can bite through jeans! Cover up to avoid being bitten and be sensible in the heat by harvesting and planting during the cooler early morning and late evening.

As this is usually our hottest month, double check your irrigation systems are working and delivering the water to the right place - Every drop is precious this time of the year. Remember trees prefer a good deep soaking a couple of times a week, whereas your vegies will need a daily drink. Don't forget your pots and hanging baskets.

To help your fruit trees manage the heat, require less water and not take over your backyard (Mulberries especially!) grab your loppers/secateurs/chainsaw and do some summer pruning. Choose a convenient height for you. I prune most of my trees so that they are no taller than 2.5m, this means I can pick from the ground and throw a net over if needed. You want to remove any crossing, rubbing, damaged or diseased limbs. These are ones that you don't want to grow back. Keeping the central area of your vase trees clear of leaves and branches will assist with air flow and reduces disease. Remove all suckers. Some trees are more prone to suckering than others and is when the rootstock grows/sprouts from below the graft line, taking energy away from the grafted part of the tree. If these are left you risk losing the grafted part of the tree. Remove all Water-shoots, these usually grow straight up/vertical and often grow higher than the general canopy level of the tree. Common on citrus and espaliered trees, they don't produce fruit and reduce the overall fruit yield.

There are a few trees that really don't like severe prunes and will sulk, not give you fruit for several years or just turn up their toes and die. Some formative pruning is ok, however it is best to tip prune or follow the prune by 1/3 rule especially with Avocados, Apricots, Lychee, Mangosteen, Persimmon and European Plums.

Planting in February? Don't feel that you have to plant anything this time of year. It is better to focus on keeping the water and shade up to the plants you have rather than trying to nurse new seedlings through searing heat. If you are keen to plant, it is best done in the cool of the evening so that your seedlings have a chance to settle in before the heat of the next day.

The strong easterly winds tend to frazzle us all, so do what you can to limit the damage in your garden. If you notice issues/disease in your veg patch, limit the impact by removing leaves or plants. Old, tired or stressed plants are always more susceptible to disease. With the summer heat and humidity, Powdery Mildew can become an issue in our gardens. Brassicas, Curcubits (cucumbers, zucchini, pumpkins), Grapes, Roses, Strawberries and Raspberries are all susceptible. You will notice a white/grey powder-like coating appears on your plant. To prevent it spreading you need to prune/remove effected shoots and leaves. A milk spray can be helpful in reducing the spread but won't stop it.

To keep your garden producing well into autumn, plant a few new replacement ones in a separate bed, there is still time to plant another crop of cucumbers, beans and zucchini (yes more). Try a few of the quick cropping dwarf varieties of beans ('Simba' or 'Provider' will crop in 50 days) and plant seedlings of curcubits to give you a 3-4 week head start. Mulch them, erect some sort of shade and don't let them dry out. Fast growing greens will taste bitter if they get hot and water stressed so find a patch in the shade or try them in pots. Leaf crops - Amaranth, Endive, Lettuce, Rocket, Silverbeet, Celery, Chicory. Brassica crops *(plant seeds in trays) - Broccoli, Brussel Sprouts, Bok Choy, Cabbage, Cauliflower, Collard greens, Kale, Mustard greens, Chinese cabbage. Root crops - Beetroot, Carrot, Radish, Potato, Kohlrabi, Celeriac, Parsnip, Salsify, Swede, Turnip, Scorzonera. Curcubit crops - Cucumber, Sweetcorn. Legume crops - Dwarf Beans. Onion family - Leeks, Spring onions, Shallots, Onions.

While we are enjoying a healthy harvest of summer vegies and continuing to succession plant, it is also time to start thinking about our Autumn/Winter Brassica crops. Planting from seed will give you the best choice of varieties however you will need to plant them asap so they will be mature enough to plant out before the cold weather and so you get to eat them before September.

A little clarification about Planting Guides... You will notice that on many of the planting calendars (including mine) they recommend planting Brassicas now and I have noticed a bit of debate recently online about the timing of this. Yes, I do plant mine now and here is why... Planting guides are useful especially when you are new to gardening but it is helpful to understand that they aren't rigid rulebooks and there is quite a bit to consider when timing your plantings - including your climate, location, varieties and when you want to eat the vegies. Firstly there are a plethora of planting guides, both paper versions and those online. www.gardenate.com is a commonly used online one and the timing is good for Perth to Mandurah, with Bunbury roughly 6 weeks later and Dardanup / inland a couple of weeks later again. This does vary with changes in yearly seasons but it is a good general guide. When planting from seed you need to consider the sowing to harvest time of each crop and this is written on your seed packet eg. 10-12 weeks or 70-84 days. This varies between varieties of these crops and some mature quicker than others, for example typical sow to harvest dates for Broccoli are 60-90 days, Cabbage 60-110 days, Brussel sprouts 90-120 days and Cauliflower 110-155 days. Why does this matter? Well, it depends on when you want to harvest / eat these crops. As the weather cools in April most of my summer crops are finished and I would like to be picking cooler season crops, so I need to think about what I want to eat and when. The next step is to count back the number of days to work out when I need to plant the seeds, for example to be picking early variety Broccoli in mid to late April (60+days) I need to plant it around the 12th February. Hint: Yes it is still hot, so for your early plantings chose more heat tolerant varieties or early maturing varieties planted slightly later. If you are limited with space then Broccoli is a better option than Cauliflower. They are ready for harvest a month sooner and once you remove the main 'head', they will continue to give you delicious side shoots for another 6 weeks.

It is easy to become overwhelmed as there is a plethora of information 'out there'. Just remember, it is better to plant something rather than stressing about whether it is the 'best day'. Your seedlings will always do better in the ground than staying confined to their punnet and we all kill a few plants - that includes me! Celebrate your harvests, keep learning and until next month... Happy Gardening!

What's Happening with Ferguson Valley Marketing – and How You Can Help

The Ferguson Valley Marketing Association (FVM) has been busy behind the scenes doing the groundwork needed to strengthen how our Valley is promoted, supported and experienced — for visitors and locals alike.

Over recent months, FVM has been working closely with the Shire of Dardanup, Tourism WA and the South West Development Commission to set a clear strategic direction for the future. This includes progressing a Regional Economic Development (RED) Grant application, supported in principle by the Shire, which aims to improve visitor services, infrastructure and promotion across the Valley.

The focus is very much on practical outcomes: clearer signage, better wayfinding, stronger visitor information, and support for experiences that reflect what makes the Ferguson Valley special — food and wine, nature-based activities, wellness tourism, trails, events and short-stay accommodation.

While this planning work is important, FVM knows that the real strength of the Valley lies in its people. Volunteers continue to be the backbone of what happens on the ground, particularly at the Ferguson Valley Visitor Centre and at pop-up activities at Gnomesville.

These volunteer-led activities do more than welcome visitors. They also help generate vital funds that are reinvested directly back into the Valley — funding things like signage, promotional materials and initiatives that help more people discover what we have to offer.

That's why FVM is putting the call out to the community.

great Valley knowledge, or simply someone who enjoys meeting people, volunteering is a simple and rewarding way to give back. Even a few hours here and there can make a real difference.

Next Stop! R&R Bus Retreat

For Simon and Judith Allington, lifelong farmers in Western Australia's, the idea grew quietly over time. It was shaped by years of working the land, a shared love of travel, and a longing for the kind of places that invite you to slow down and breathe.

"We have always loved staying somewhere a little bit different," Judith says. "Places with a story, where you feel connected to nature, to the past, and to each other."

That love eventually found its way home.

On their working homestead farm, tucked beside the stream and framed by towering trees, Simon and Judith saw the potential to create something deeply personal. They wanted a retreat that reflected who they are and how they live. Not flashy or overdone, but thoughtful, warm, and grounded. The result is R&R Bus Retreat, an adults-only escape built around two beautifully restored vintage buses, affectionately named Betsy and Charles.

Each bus tells its own story. Betsy built in 1962, bold and blue, is filled with character and colour. Charles built in 1964, quieter and more understated, offers a softer and more intimate feel. Inside, guests find carefully chosen vintage pieces, cosy textures, and modern comforts, all lovingly curated to feel more like a home than a hotel. Renovating the buses was a labour of love. "We wanted to honour their history while making them comfortable and welcoming," Simon explains. "It was important to us that nothing felt rushed or mass-produced."

Nature plays just as important a role as the buses themselves. Guests wake to birdsong, watch the stream drift by, and spend evenings under wide country skies. It is a place where time stretches, phones are forgotten, and conversations come easily.

Supporting the local community is woven into everything they do. From local produce to regional wines, Simon and Judith are passionate about sharing the flavours and stories of the valley they call home.

"Ferguson Valley has so much to offer," Judith says. "We love being able to introduce people to the producers, the walks, and the quiet beauty that can sometimes be taken for granted."

R&R Bus Retreat is intentionally adults-only, not to exclude, but to protect the calm. It is designed for couples reconnecting, friends celebrating milestones, or anyone craving space to rest and reset.

More than anything, the retreat is a reflection of Simon and Judith themselves. Grounded, generous, and quietly nostalgic.

"We hope people leave feeling lighter," Judith says. "Rested. And maybe inspired to slow down a little when they go back to their own lives."

At R&R Bus Retreat, the buses may be vintage, but the memories made inside them are entirely new.

Council Endorses Rural Kerbside Waste Services With Transition Support

The Shire of Dardanup Council has endorsed an expansion of the two-bin rural kerbside waste collection service to all rural properties with a dwelling, following its December Council meeting.

The service will be progressively rolled out across rural areas between April and May 2026, with charges applying from 1 July 2026.

To support rural residents during the transition, Council has approved a one-off 50 per cent discount on 20 x 240-litre bin tip passes for properties newly included in the service. Shire of Dardanup President Cr Tyrrell Gardiner said the discounted tip pass voucher was a key transition measure to support households as the new service is introduced.

"We recognise this is a significant change for some rural residents, which is why Council has deliberately included a one-off discounted tip pass offer to help people transition to the new kerbside service," Cr Gardiner said. Cr Gardiner said the decision followed years of feedback from rural residents seeking a more reliable and consistent waste solution.

"For many years, Council has been hearing from rural residents who wanted a more consistent waste service," he said.

"This decision ensures all eligible rural properties are treated equitably, while also improving safety by reducing the need for regular self-haul waste trips."

In 2024, the Shire successfully trialled a voluntary rural kerbside waste service in parts of Henty and the Ferguson Valley, which demonstrated strong community uptake and operational success.

"The success of that pilot gave Council confidence that extending the service across the entire rural community would deliver positive outcomes," Cr Gardiner said.

"Based on that experience, we believe this service will be a practical, fair and sustainable solution for the Shire long-term."

Cr Gardiner said the rollout would occur in stages to ensure a smooth and orderly implementation.

"Bins will be delivered progressively across rural areas, and the service will commence once bins are received," he said.

"Importantly, residents will receive clear information well before the service begins, including delivery timeframes, collection details and costs."

Eligible rural property owners will receive information by mail, including details about the service and the discounted tip pass voucher.
